TOP 5 Safety Practices to Reduce Risk

With claim costs rising, movers are looking for ways to make their fleets safer. The best method to reduce claim costs is to actively promote safety to your fleet.

#1 TRACK EVERYTHING

Knowledge is power. Analyze your claims history to provide direction for your safety training efforts. Tracking when, where, and how a claim occurred identifies specific weaknesses in your fleet or potential risky locations you may want to avoid. Mover's Choice Online offers you FREE actionable dashboards to dive deep into your claims history data.

#2 USE TELEMATICS

Telematics is a new technology that allows fleet managers to track driving behaviors. Implementing this technology helps fleets in two ways:

- Driver accountability tends to lead to reductions in speeding, accidents, and instances of distracted driving.
- Allows fleet managers to identify driver weaknesses and address them before they lead to an incident.

#3 USE VIDEO TRAINING

Provide safety training through videos as it is an effective way to hold a driver's attention. Mover's Choice Online offers you FREE safety training videos that are short enough to be used as a refresher and complete enough to train a new employee.

#4 TALK SAFETY WEEKLY

Discuss a training topic each week to keep safety a top priority. Meetings should be planned out to cover helpful and actionable information. Mover's Choice offers you FREE access to an archive of loss control resources to run effective safety meetings.

#5 REWARD SAFE DRIVERS

Motivate your team to drive safely by creating a reward program that acknowledges or awards small prizes to drivers that reach specific safety goals.

Safety doesn't happen by accident.

A culture of safety can be achieved.
